Rarely does a book grab me from the very beginning, reading it late into the night, distracting me as I went about my daily routine, anxious to get back where I left off the night before. This is one of those unforgettable stories that will haunt you and stay with you long after it is finished. I have to remind myself that I have never been to Belize. The author painted a picture as clear as if I walked the trails, taking in the scents, sights and sounds. Beautiful surroundings mixed with pain, humiliation and suffering....making choices so painful I had to put the book down and weep for her strength and will to survive. I will never forget this story.
